This department was established in 1993 under the name of "Accounting and Finance" within the "Aquaculture Economy and Organization" faculty. Because of this, in connection with the independence of our Republic, the team of the faculty was assigned the task of training highly qualified, competitive experts for water management enterprises. Starting from the 1992-1993 academic year, according to the order of the Ministry of Agriculture and Water Management, 50 students were admitted each year for the specialization "Accounting and Finance". Professor O.U.Salimov and associate professor A.P. Polatov contributed to the opening of this specialty. In 1995-1998, a specially equipped lecture room and classrooms equipped with "Proves" computers for practical training were established in the classrooms attached to the department. Slide projectors and video films were widely used during lectures. A special classroom equipped with 10 computers was organized for conducting practical training and evaluating students' knowledge.

During these years, the teachers of the department have prepared the text of lectures, practical training manuals and sets of problems and applied them to the educational process. Since 1997, in connection with the transition of education in higher educational institutions to a two-level system, the department has started preparing accountant bachelors for water management enterprises, and since 2001, a master's degree in the specialty "Accounting" (in water management) has been established. The head of the department, Associate Professor Akhror Azlarov, Candidate of Economics, made a great contribution to the opening of the master's specialty. During this period, the department paid more attention to the scientific work of talented young people. As a result, the scientific potential of the department increased, and the structure of the department was renewed. In 2004, with the change of the name of the institute, the department was also operated under the new name "Accounting and Audit".

In 2004-2005, Sh.T.Ergasheva and Sh.I.Hodzhimuhamedova, professors-teachers of the department, and in 2010, A.G.Ibragimov defended their candidate theses.
